Lillian was dilly are the new delegates of Local Assembly and he did not look displeased. So there you are! What is the use, after all, of and he did not look displeased. So there you are! What is the use, after all, of crediting the remarksof the sceptics?

They say that although the late Robert L. Cutting had cut off Minnle Seligman's husband's allowance, he paid the tailors' bills of the young man, and was also responsible for his club dues. Fortunately for him, young Cutting played the part of the minstrel in "Olaf" in Philadelphia, and refrained from an exhibition in New York. There was therefore no reason for a further outbreak of hostility on the part of the father.

The members of the "Old Kentucky" company at the Academy of Music have asked the management to permit them to depart each night from the front of the house instead of through the stage door. At the latter exit, they are confronted by impecunious friends of the profession who want quarters, and as much more as they can get. This is, indeed, the condition at most of the theatres just now, but the Academy people are the earliest on record to utter a protest.

"La Vivandiere" is the name of a new comic opera by Victor Herbert and Francis Nellson, that has been accepted by Lillian Russell. It will not, how-ever, be presented this season.

The Kendals' Russian play, known as "The Silver Shell," which was received pleasantly in New York as a sort of relef from "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," has been roasted to cinders in Chicago. One critic says of it: "It is not only rubblish, but so stupid, so confounded that, even read slowly by the author, for instance, with all the explanatory notes, and illustrations imaginary, it would seem certainly no better than an explanation of a nightmare caused by indulgence in lobster a la Newburgh."

"Ah!" said Will McConnell, gazing at the sardine-packed Metropolitan Opera-House Saturday afternoon, "what a fearful season it is! See those elegantly dressed women and those immaculately clad men simply clamoring for admission, and you will understand the true inwardness of the cry that there is no money in New York. Isn't it sad to see all these paupers? No money for theatren! Absolute needs swallow all available cash! Not a decent audience could be found for Maine and Georgia, 'The Voyage of Suzette,' The American Duchess' and such splendid attractions. And it is all put down to metropolitan poverty!"

Henry Clay Miner, it is now officially announced, has definitely relinquished his ideas of a stock company for the Fifth Avenue Theatre next season. Hence all his arrangements with agents on the other side for the purchase of English plays are off. Combinations will be continued at this house.

It is said that an effort is being surreptitiously made to give the Indian coachman, who is to play the part of othelio in this city, a sort of a James Owen O'Conor ovation, with an eye to awakening interest in that manner.
This, at any rate, is the gossip on the Rialto. The Rialto-ites, however, may feel jealous of the coachman's opportuniwas the simost unanimous choice of the delegates.

The matter seems to have resolved itself into a case of maneuvring and the side that can show the most skill in that regard will come out ahead. It does seem as if there ought to be a law one way or the other, and that the matter could be decided once and for all without all this fuss and worry.

There is some talk now of the contest taking place in private. The Duval A. C. people say the contest will be held if there are only two people on hand to see it. Judging from accounts, the Club people are inclined to overstep the bounds of discretion. President Mason is cred-
